

ANTI-BULLYING

PARENT BROCHURE

لَقَدْ كَانَ لَكُمْ فِي رَسُولِ اللَّهِ أُسْوَةٌ حَسَنَةٌ لِّمَن كَانَ يَرْجُو
اللَّهَ وَالْيَوْمَ الْآخِرَ وَذَكَرَ اللَّهَ كَثِيرًا

The above ayah translates to: "and indeed for you in the Prophet of Allah is an excellent example for the person who has hope in Allah and the Day of Judgement and remembers Allah a lot."

This ayah tells us that Allah expects us to follow the example and the words of Prophet SAW if we have belief in him and the akhirah. On that note we should be looking at the following Hadith when it comes to anti-bullying:

Abdullah bin Amr reported: The Messenger of Allah, peace, and blessings be upon him, said:

الْمُسْلِمُ مَنْ سَلِمَ النَّاسُ مِنْ لِسَانِهِ وَيَدِهِ وَالْمُؤْمِنُ مَنْ أَمِنَهُ
النَّاسُ عَلَى دِمَائِهِمْ وَأَمْوَالِهِمْ

The Muslim is the one from whose tongue and hand the Muslims are safe.

Source: Ṣaḥīḥ al-Bukhārī 10

This hadith clearly states that a true Muslim is someone who does not harm others with his tongue or hands. While hands can mean physical harm, they can also be a means of cyber-bullying. When we type rude comments or offensive words to people we are using our hands in the process.

لَا يُؤْمِنُ أَحَدُكُمْ حَتَّى يُحِبَّ لِأَخِيهِ مَا يُحِبُّ لِنَفْسِهِ on the authority of Abu Hamzah Anas bin Malik (may Allah be pleased with him) - the servant of the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) - that the Prophet (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said:

None of you will believe until you love for your brother what you love for yourself.

No one likes to be bullied therefore it is only sensible for a Muslim to not bully others and to not be a stand by either. Our faith is not complete until we genuinely want for others what we want for ourselves.

عَنْ النُّعْمَانِ بْنِ بَشِيرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ مَثَلُ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ فِي تَوَادُّهِمْ
وَتَرَاحُمِهِمْ وَتَعَاطُفِهِمْ مَثَلُ الْجَسَدِ إِذَا اشْتَكَى مِنْهُ عُضْوٌ تَدَاعَى لَهُ سَائِرُ الْجَسَدِ بِالسَّهَرِ وَالْحُمَّى

Al-Nu'man ibn Bashir reported: The Messenger of Allah, peace, and blessings be upon him, said, "The parable of the believers in their affection, mercy, and compassion for each other is that of a body. When any limb aches, the whole body reacts with sleeplessness and fever."

Source: Ṣaḥīḥ al-Bukhārī 5665, Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim 2586

This clearly states that if we claim to be true Muslims and we love Allah SWT and his Prophet SAW, then we can never feel happiness or enjoy the pain of others. If one person is a victim of others treating him/her badly we should never enable nor encourage it. We should support that person and get help for him or her.

CONFLICT RESOLUTION TIPS FOR PARENTS

During a child's academic life, conflict and social challenges become a normal part of life. Your child may come home and tell you about an incident. Or you may hear about it from their teacher or another student's parent. In all these circumstances, it is important to know how to react in a positive and constructive way to promote healthy solutions and change.

LISTEN

- Maintain a comfort zone for communication. Ask your child about their day and take an interest in their challenges.
- Start by acknowledging what's going on and avoid criticizing them or their friends. You can say things like "I know it's hard now, but it won't always be this way" or "This situation is tough, but so are you."
- Help your child feel at ease about confiding in you. "I'm here for you if you need to talk"
- Be nonjudgmental and provide empathy. "That must be frustrating, what are some things you can do to help yourself calm down or feel better?"

Parents should focus on helping their child handle social conflicts rather than attempting to solve the problem. Resist "fixing" the situation. It's in your child's best interest to figure out how to manage an episode of rejection or conflict on their own so they can develop skills that transfer to similar situations in the future.

- Help your child learn how to be assertive but respectful. Help them gain the tools to say things like, "It hurts my feelings when you call me that" or "I don't like that you took my belongings without asking, please give it back".
- Help them to take responsibility for their own behavior- Teach your child to take ownership of their mistakes and their role in the conflict.
- Teach your child to forgive and try to make amends for the sake of Allah (SWT).

Here are some questions that might help to resolve conflict and brainstorm solutions together

What did you try?
How did it work?
What else can you try?

DIFFERENTIATE MEANNESS FROM BULLYING:

Try to learn the specific circumstances of the social situation to help your child understand whether there was a deliberate effort to exclude or bully or whether it was a random event. Remind them to think about the other person. Maybe you can help them start to see the other side of the issue.

QUALITY TIME

- Find times to be available for your child to talk about what's going on even if they act like they don't want to.
- Make a point of spending more time with them than usual. Your emotional support and belief in them can be very helpful at this time.

EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

- Support their outside interests and hobbies.
- Enroll them in classes or groups to help them learn how to navigate other social circles.

GET HELP

- Contact a teacher or staff member to gain insight into the conflict and work towards a solution.
- Contact your school counselor to set up a time for your child or family to meet.
- Contact a family or individual therapist outside of school to work with you and your child on an ongoing basis.

TIPS TO REMEMBER:

- Expect kids to respect everyone, but don't expect them to like or be friends with everyone.
- You should insist that your child behaves in civil, non-hurtful ways with peers at all times.
- You are your child's primary role model. Let them see you model positive social behavior.
